NAMES 3 ROSENTHAL SLAYERS

NEW YORK, April 14.—The full story of Diego Frank's confession, how it was made and when and why, the whole dramatic narrative, because known today for the first time.

The confession was concluded twenty minutes before Diego Frank went to the chair. In these twenty minutes Warren Clancy made a desperate appeal to Governor Glynn, through Representative of Fresno, Italy, for a reprieve for Diego Frank.

The warden, just from the scene with the confining gunman, was sorely shaken. When the governor refused a reprieve, he shook himself together, apologized for the ferocity of his appeal, and turned away to do his duty and sent the key to the jail.

Diego Frank confessed, not from penitence or love for his mother, but in one last endeavor to save his miserable life.

PASSED BY PEACE.
As he spoke, he was cringing, pained by the fear of some unknown vengeance on his own family. But he gave in at last, yielded the throne of murderous gang existence and told on the brink of the grave the story that he hoped might save him. It served only to show how unerring had been the arrows of the law's vengeance.

Never was confession made amid more dramatic circumstances. At dawn of a sunny day, removed from his companions in the tragedy and placed in a private room before his mother, his sister, his priest and his jailer, he made one last desperate effort to save himself.

Finally, kneeling to dispatch from Albany, the day declared:—
"The four of them were hired out to kill Herman Rosenthal, but John Langer, or better John, gambler who was always to corroborate the statement made by Rosenthal to District Attorney Whitman.

Glynn Guarded at Home and on Street After Death Threat

NEW YORK, April 14.—Armed guards today patrol the grounds of the Executive Mansion on Marble street. Every visitor who approaches is held up and forced to give an account of himself before he is permitted to approach the house.

The reason for this is the fact that for several days Governor Glynn has received numerous communications threatening that if the governor were permitted to die his friends would avenge them.

These letters have been kept from the Governor by his secretary and he does not know of the presence of the guards about his home. When he walks from the Mansion to the Capitol these men follow. Some member of the executive staff, usually legal adviser Saxe, who is of athletic build, finds some excuse to walk with the Governor.

Siegel Case Goes to Criminal Branch

NEW YORK, April 14.—On motion of District Attorney Whitman, the fourteen indictments against Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel were transferred from the General Sessions Court to the criminal branch of the Supreme Court. The men will be placed on trial before Justice Saxe on the charges of grand larceny and receiving defraud when they know the private bank was involved.

'Finis' Written on Case, Says Wahle

NEW YORK, April 14.—Charles G. P. Wahle, counsel for the gunmen whose work was praised by Judge (and, said today in comment upon the confession from the confessional:—
"Finis" had been written. The case is closed forever. The boys have no more to say. I am glad to have the weight off my mind."

Vallon's Counsel Rejects Confession

NEW YORK, April 14.—Bernard H. Souder, Harry Vallon's counsel, said today that Diego Frank's confession deserves no legal consideration. "It was not a dying statement," he declared. "It was made in the hope of life. What of it related to Diego and Vallon was admitted because it was in a situation where it was impossible for them to do what"

Threats Cause Big Tenderloin Scare

NEW YORK, April 14.—Terror is abroad in the Tenderloin. Sam Parnegon, who revealed to the police the hiding place of "Lefty Louie" and "Dip the Blood," received a threatening letter to the effect that he would may with his life for their. He left the city.

HABEAS WRIT FOR FUGITIVE

CORPORAL N. H. April 14.—Harry K. Thorne has won a sweeping victory in his fight for freedom. Judge Edgar Aldrich today filed his decision on the writ habeas corpus writ, sustaining it and ordering Thorne's extradition.

The judge made it plain that he does not believe Thorne's father's action in granting extradition. He also refused from granting any order for Thorne's release and says now will be issued to William Travers Jerome and the New York attorneys are ready to take an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

On the afternoon of last, Judge Aldrich said he was "in a difficult position" to grant the writ. He said that if he granted the writ, he would be "in a difficult position" to grant the writ. He said that if he granted the writ, he would be "in a difficult position" to grant the writ.

Judge Aldrich continues Jerome's contest of the right to get Thorne back to Baltimore. He does not believe extradition proceedings were the proper way to get Thorne back, but declares, in accord with the statement of former Senator Joseph of Concord, that had New York asked for Thorne's return, the request must have been granted.

Scotch Express Wrecked; 2 Killed

ABERDEEN, Scotland, April 14.—The famous Scotch express, the train to the north of Scotland, was wrecked near Burntisland station today. The engineer and fireman were killed, and two persons were seriously injured that they probably will die.

DIVORCEES, 63 AND 22, GIVEN LICENSE TO WED

Gladye Turner, twenty-two, of No. 15 Lincoln street, Rochester, N. H., and Thomas H. Call, sixty-three, of Portsmouth, N. H., today were put in the hands of the city registrar, No. 10 Summer street, to get their divorce papers.

"I do hope none of the reporters will get wind of this and publish the facts," said Miss Turner to an attendant of the office as she showed her divorce papers. "If they do I hope they don't say I'm a vaudeville actress."

A representative of the AMERICAN LEAGUE what Miss Turner said. He was standing at her elbow waiting for information concerning another wedding.

Miss Turner was a handsome young woman with a red hat. She was very pretty and smiled several times at her fiancé, who was with her.

After getting the divorce papers, Miss Turner left the office with her fiancé. The attendant said that both were "all right."

CAPTURE MAN WITH RECORD ON THEFT CHARGE

When Herman D. Murphy, with his wife and two children, attempted to board a train for Westchester, at North Station, today, they were joined by three men. Murphy, an artist and personal friend of Tom Lavery, grabbed one of the men.

A Special Officer Colburn gave chase but such a crowd had gathered that he just lost him. A few minutes later he saw him in a nearby hotel and was about to place him under arrest when a clerk grabbed him and carried him off to the station.

Special Officer Colburn took his prisoner to headquarters, where he was crowded into a rooming house of New York. He gave his name as Robert Henderson. Colburn is well known in the police as a professional pick-pocket.

He has nine records in his past and two in Chelsea. He was charged with armed robbery from the person and the robbery of a box and coat case, and was sentenced to jail April 10.

Asquith Cheered 5 Minutes in House

LONDON, April 14.—The greatest ovation ever given a premier in the House of Commons was accorded today to Premier Asquith, when the House of Commons reconvened after the Easter holidays. Colleen members, Liberals and Nationalists, stood upon the benches and cheered for five minutes when he took the seat he had resigned upon taking the portfolio of Secretary of State for War in the cabinet.

Mellen Is Cleared of Death Charge

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., April 14.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, was today cleared of the charge of manslaughter growing out of the fatal wreck at Bridgeport, October 2, 1912, by the verdict of a jury in the Superior Court today.

U.S. READY TO STRIKE AT MEXICO

WASHINGTON, April 14.—No secret was made in official circles today as to the fact that the Mexican situation is regarded as serious. It was admitted that relations with the southern republic were at the breaking point as a result of the refusal of the Mexican Federalists at Tampico to comply with the demand that the United States flag be hoisted.

President Wilson himself took charge of the situation and conferred at length with Special Envoy John Lind, Secretary of State Bryan and Solicitor General Johnson of the State Department.

This conference was held before the cabinet meeting and discussed the session of the President's advisers. All officials refrained from discussing the situation, but there was an indication that the President would alter his determination to force Rear Admiral Mayne demand for the nation.

It was estimated that if the Mexicans continued to not comply with this demand the American commander at Tampico would be instructed to take any steps that he regarded as necessary.

PREPARED FOR CRISIS.
Secretary of War Garrison today ordered all quartermaster-generals to check all information to all connected ships and that even that would be available to the government should a rapid movement of troops be necessary.

"It is the intention of the War Department," said Secretary Garrison, "to keep itself well informed as to the location of all military equipment and to be ready to move it as quickly as possible in case of a crisis."

"The government," he added, "is prepared for such action as may be necessary, and it is the intention of the War Department to move with an all-out effort in case of a crisis."

REPORTS FROM MEXICO.
Reports from Mexico City today by the Chief of Mexican Consular Affairs in New York City, Mr. Nathan, indicated that the Mexican Consul in New York City, Mr. Nathan, had received a confidential message stating that the Mexican Government had agreed to accept General Villa's troops in the city of Mexico.

However, the dispatch said, the Mexican Government had refused to accept the terms of the agreement, and the situation remained unchanged.

FIVE WOMEN AMONG ALLSTON HORROR VICTIMS

BEHARRELL, MRS. BERTHA H., fifty-five, of No. 709 Westford street, Lowell; most of her sister, Mrs. Edith T. Bemis, on fifth floor. Burned to death.

BEMIS, MRS. EDITH T., thirty-three, killed by jumping from fifth-floor balcony.

POWERS, MRS. J. RAYMOND, thirty-five years, suffocated and burned in his dining room on fifth floor.

POWERS, MRS. J. RAYMOND, thirty, suffocated in bed with her baby.

POWERS, JOHN, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Raymond Powers, suffocated.

O'CONNOR, MISS MARY, twenty-one years old, of No. 29 Elmwood street, maid in the Powers family, suffocated with Mrs. Powers and baby. (The maid went to work there only last Saturday.)

SHACKFORD, MRS. ALICE L., twenty-six, wife of C. L. Shackford, jumped from fifth floor.

Boston suffered the worst apartment house fire in its history today when seven people were killed and twenty injured by flames which swept through the five floors of the Melvin, No. 1115 Commonwealth avenue, in the fashionable residential district of Allston.

In addition to the seven deaths one person, Miss Irene Hazel, is reported missing, so the total death toll may be swelled to eight.

It seemed as though there were peculiarly distressing circumstances connected with every death, in addition to the tragedy itself.

UNITED STATES RUSHES FLEET TO MEXICO.
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14.—The Atlantic fleet has been ordered to Tampico. This indicates a grave crisis in Mexican affairs.

WOMAN DEFAULTS IN SHOPLIFTING CASE.
A woman who gave the name of Annie Taylor, but who refused to give her address, delinquent in the City Police Court today when called for a hearing as a shoplifter.

Is Human Life Always to Be Sacrificed for Money?

No very deep investigation is needed of the fire that swept through the Melvin apartment house on Commonwealth avenue today TO PROVE that there is either something wrong with the building construction or with the enforcement of the law.

The AMERICAN has persistently pointed out the grave danger to human life that comes from so-called second-class construction. This is the construction of the building burned today, and is described by Building Commissioner O'Hearn as "only a thin brick wall and wooden interior, of five stories, containing thirty suites."

And he adds: "NOTHING IN THE WORLD COULD SAVE THE PEOPLE IN CASE OF FIRE."

It is the law, so, then, why are such buildings erected? Is the law at fault, or is it the fault of the owners or contractors?

IS HUMAN LIFE ALWAYS TO BE SACRIFICED FOR MONEY?

Is there to be no chance of escape for men, women and children from certain death in case of fire?

IF THE LAW IS DEFECTIVE, IT MUST BE CHANGED. If those responsible for the construction of fire-trap buildings are guilty, THEY MUST BE PUNISHED, and so severely that there will be no more fire-traps in Alston or anywhere else in and around Boston.

Building Commissioner O'Hearn has it in his power to do a great service for the people in placing responsibility for these fire-traps. And whoever the men are engaged in fire-trap construction, they should be PUNISHED TO THE LIMIT OF THE LAW.

Human life is cheap enough in the average every-day routine. It must be made reasonably safe, so that when men, women and children go to sleep at night there is a fair chance that they will not be burned to death or smothered in their beds.

THE INJURED

ROGERS, MRS. C. A. burned about the head, face, neck and body.

ADAMS, MRS. ROBERT, sister of Mrs. Rogers, burned about the head, face, neck and body.

STEVENS, THOMAS, of Ladder 11, fell thirty-five feet to ground from slipping ladder, badly shaken up and bruised.

HARTFORD, MISS HELEN G., slight burns.

REED, MISS MINNIE L., shaken, bruised, and slightly burned in jumping from one fire escape to another.

KELLEY, FRANK C., slightly burned and bruised.

JOHNSON, MRS. M. E., slightly burned and bruised.

WALAMER, MISS IDA, slightly burned and shaken up.

DASEY, MRS. KATHARINE, KMA, slightly bruised and burned.

DASEY, CHARLES C., son of Mrs. Dasey, slightly bruised and burned.

MYVER, ANGUS, janitor, hand cut in breaking window for the escape of his wife and child.

MYVER, MRS. ANGUS, shaken up, bruised and slightly burned.

MYVER, MISS ELIZABETH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myver, slightly burned, bruised and badly frightened.

STEWART, JOSEPH L., former owner of the building, bruised and shaken up in jumping from first story to the street to escape the flames.

STEWART, MRS. JOSEPH L., wife of the former owner, slightly bruised, badly shaken up and slightly burned in her effort to escape by jumping out of a first story window to the street.

THE MISSING

HAZEL, IRENE, guest of Mrs. Hartwell and Miss Frances Hartwell on third floor. Last to be seen on fire escape.

Four tenants died in one suite, Mr. and Mrs. J. Raymond Powers, their infant son and their young maid, Miss Mary O'Connor. The Powers couple, ideally happy, with their baby boy, had everything for which to live. The maid had gone to work for the Powers only last Saturday.

Mrs. Bertha H. Beharrell of Lowell was visiting her sister, Mrs. Edith T. Benis. Both sisters perished, one leaping to her death, the other falling back in the flames.

Mrs. Alice Shackford leaped to her death from a fifth-floor window while her husband was trying to find a way out for them.

RUSH ABOUT IN PANIC. While these seven—possibly eight—victims were being smothered, other tenants—to the number of 120—were rushing madly for hallways, stairways and fire escapes, groping through smoke, pushing through sheets of fire, sliding down ropes, fashioned from bothels, leaning from windows or over balconies and fire escapes and screaming for help in the wild, blind terror that fire inspires.

Many gallant rescues were made by firemen, police, neighbors and to tenants themselves.

The firemen were late. Some estimate that a half-hour passed between the discovery of the fire and the arrival of the apparatus. But this was distinctly not the fault of the department. Nothing but praise has been heard of the firemen and the way they worked.

But one man who was sent to ring in an alarm didn't pull the box and others who called "where's the fire alarm bell?" didn't seem to know there was a new one, installed six months ago, right across the street.

WOMAN PHONES ALARM. Angus McIver, basement tenant, says that he sent a man to the nearest box, but the man thought that all he had to do was to open the box door. As the box was not rung he might as well have not got at all.

The first notice the firemen had was when Miss Mary O'Connor, lying across the street, heard the fire alarm and telephoned the department.

A three-fold investigation is in progress to determine the cause of the fire and the responsibility of all for the deaths.

where the fireman reached us. It was a frightful ordeal, but during it I wasn't so scared as I am now.

"We were careful to keep the outer doors in our suite closed as the hallways were flame-swept and choked with smoke. We crawled through the bathroom window. There we were on our hands and knees, and I lowered my wife and child to the second floor fire escape, where the fireman caught them. The women were unconscious."

"It became terribly hot where I stood. Flame was pouring out of the window about two feet of me. My head was burning off and my face scorched. Two hands were pretty much burned. I was afraid I wouldn't be able to get away, but I fastened the curtain to the fire escape and hurried down hand-over-hand."

at first, but opened the hall door to learn what was the matter. The moment I did so great clouds of smoke rushed into our apartment, and I realized that the building was on fire.

"Hastily calling to my wife, I commenced to dress. Blue was cool, and collected, but we didn't have sufficient time in which to collect ourselves properly. With a few wraps thrown over our shoulders, we ran to the window leading out to the front of the building.

WIFE IS SHOT DOWN WITH BAY IN HER ARMS

John H. Collins, a former "L" conductor, lately employed at a Black Bay garage, was held for arraignment today, charged with shooting and killing his wife, Mrs. Agnes Collins, at No. 2111 Washington street, Jamaica Plain, where she held their year-old baby in her arms.

The shooting occurred at the wife's home. The couple had been quarreling since last November, but only because the wife had been the cause of his and to discuss a reconciliation, and period with apparently bright prospects of settling up house-keeping again.

Mrs. Collins was twenty-six, and her wife was four years his junior. She left him, claiming he did not support her and their two children, the elder of whom is five and who was a witness of the shooting, arriving in vain to save the mother's life.

TI REATERS AT-NA-LAW. Mrs. Collins and the two children, Cyril, one year old, and John, five, are the only persons in the house. Her father, James J. Collins, lives at No. 2111 Washington street. According to the story of little John, Mrs. Collins had Cyril in her arms when her husband approached her. The police believe the shooting was done almost without warning. The mother found her Collins lying on the floor. One instant she placed Mrs. Collins's head and the other instant she was at the window.

Mrs. Collins, father of Mrs. Collins, and met Collins in the hall, carrying little Cyril in his arms. He shot at his daughter's head, and she was killed. The police believe the shooting was done almost without warning. The mother found her Collins lying on the floor. One instant she placed Mrs. Collins's head and the other instant she was at the window.

ALLEGED SLAYER SORREL

Collins was seen only once. He had been drinking, but the police say he was not intoxicated.

Mrs. Collins was born in Jamaica Plain. She was graduated from the Bowditch Grammar School. Members of the family and others who knew her well declared that there was no reason why Collins should have been jealous of her. When accused of unjustified jealousy, she said: "I am a plain woman. Collins was a man, and was quite when questioned as to why he should have been jealous of her."

Mrs. Collins is said to have been with her husband on the night of the shooting. She was seen only once. He had been drinking, but the police say he was not intoxicated.

Surgeons Discuss Transplanting of Parts by Carrel

NEW YORK, April 14.—Surgeons at the congress of the International Surgical Association began a discussion today of a paper on the transplantation of the organs by Dr. Alexis Carrel.

"Although the technical part of the problem of the transplantation of organs was solved long ago," Dr. Carrel said in his paper, "this operation cannot yet be applied to human surgery."

The present aspect of the problem is to find out the cause of the reaction of an organism against a new organ and to discover by what means the reaction can be prevented and the organ become adapted to its new owner.

Getting More Business

EVERY one is daily confronted with any number of commercial obstacles, snarls or questions that are difficult to overcome, smooth or straighten out. It is either "how" can we cut selling expenses—or "how" is Jones doing—or "how" is so and so's credit—or "how" were yesterday's orders, and so on until it just seems as though business is one continual "how" after another. Yet all these are secondary to the biggest and most burning "how" of all, namely—"how can we get more business?"

Broadly speaking the only way you can get more business is to utilize your working time to better advantage.

You cannot lengthen your days. But you can accomplish more work in the same time by adopting modern methods. Modernize your business, and your bank balance has got to increase in proportion. It never fails.

Our representative will be glad to call and go into all details, plans, specifications, prices, costs, etc. He will call whenever you say.

Willys-Utility Trucks conserve time. If you haul things, no matter what, they make it possible for you to do in 15 minutes, work that heretofore took 60 minutes. They permit two men to do the work of six. They make forty deliveries where horses make but fourteen—and often less. They make it possible for you to reach out for new and undeveloped business because they give you and yours the time and the means to do it with.

Willys-Utility Trucks are helping merchants all over the world to develop new business.

They are cutting down expenses and increasing the volume of business.

They can do the same for you.

And we can give you all the bona-fide evidence you want from merchants right in your line of business.

Also remember, the Willys-Utility Truck costs 30% less than any other similar truck made.
